

'No time for tapas in a hospital crisis'

'Fact-finding' trips to Spain and US slammed by NHS whistleblower

By William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

A WHISTLEBLOWER has criticised directors of Princess Alexandra Hospital for enjoying a "tapas jolly" with departments under intense financial pressure.

Two board members from the infirmary in Hamstel Road, Harlow, recently visited healthcare systems in Ribera Salud in Spain while three members made a similar trip to the USA in the summer.

The Star received an anonymous letter, from an employee believed to work within Princess Alexandra (PAH), which voiced disapproval of the earlier visit to America.

The letter read: "This was also ostensibly a study trip and the directors on this jolly are also on the tapas jolly to Spain."

"The emergency care system is crumbling in Harlow. The whole system is in financial mess."

Deteriorated

"If the study trip to America was expected to bring benefits we certainly have not seen any, if anything the situation has deteriorated from the summer."

"And what are we to expect from this latest venture (to Spain)? Isn't it time those directors rolled up their sleeves and sorted out the problems on their doorstep?"

"My colleague and I are appalled this managerial behaviour continues; it is little short of crass arrogance if not complete incompetence."

PAH was placed in special measures last year after the Care and Quality Commission (CQC) rated the hospital's managing trust as "inadequate" in a report. The infirmary's emergency department reached black alert last year, meaning no more beds were available.

UNDER PRESSURE: Princess Alexandra Hospital, where chiefs have been accused of taking a 'tapas jolly'

In response a PAH spokesman stressed the visits were beneficial to the hospital's future and were funded by those who undertook them.

A spokesman said: "In a joint initiative with our system partners, two members of the board had the opportunity to visit Ribera Salud."

"This is one of the best healthcare systems in the world, where they have integrated acute and primary health at the same time as reducing costs and improving quality for patients."

"This is the long term aim of the healthcare system partners in West Essex and Hertfordshire and has helped inform how a whole healthcare system can work together in a more sustainable and efficient way."

"Travel and expenses for this visit were funded by those who attended."

The USA trip was organised and partly funded by the Academic Health Science Network and Yale University.

"It focused on improving patient quality and outcomes."

This trip was made before the CQC rating and the spokesman said a number of quality strategy programmes have been embedded across the hospital.

He continued: "If we do not innovate and continue to deliver the same care this will not keep up with demand on our services."

"The trust is committed to providing safer, more sustainable and better quality care."

"Learning organisations and systems always seek out what it best and look to implement improvement."

"We have done this at minimal cost to the trust but with maximum impact."

FIRST HEARING: Chelmsford Magistrates' Court which also serves as a youth court

Crown court hearing for teen facing manslaughter accusation

A TEENAGE boy charged with killing Arkadiusz Jozwik has made his first appearances in court.

The 15-year-old from Harlow, who cannot be named for legal reasons, is charged with manslaughter after Mr Jozwik's death last year.

The 40-year-old victim, known as Arek to friends, was assaulted in The Stow, Harlow, on Saturday, August 27. He died two days later at Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge from his injuries.

Wearing a grey shirt, dark coat and black trousers, the boy was accompanied by his mother and father for the opening hearing at Chelmsford Youth Court on Friday. In a ten-minute hearing the case was swiftly transferred to Chelmsford Crown Court.

Confirm

The teen spoke only to confirm his details and bail conditions were agreed.

The appearance at Chelmsford Crown Court on Monday was purely administrative.

A date for the second hearing at the court has been confirmed for Friday, January 27. The teen remains on bail.

Essex Police arrested six boys, all aged 15 and 16, in the aftermath of The Stow incident, but all apart from one were released without further charge.

Polish national Mr Jozwik worked for a sausage manufacturer in River Way, Harlow. The uncle moved to Harlow in 2012 to join other members of his family.

His death sparked international media interest, while a silent march from The Stow to Harlow town centre in his memory was attended by hundreds.

FARE DEAL? The NCP-run Harlow Town station car park will charge season ticket holders £100 extra per year

Anger at hike in car park fees at stations

Operator says first rise in two years will finance investment

By William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

GREATER Anglia's decision to increase the annual cost of using railway station car parks has angered commuters.

Users of Bishop's Stortford, Cheshunt and Harlow Town rail car parks have seen their annual parking ticket increase by up to £130 this year, with fees also being hiked elsewhere.

Robert Halfon, MP for Harlow, said: "It is outrageous that hard-working commuters have been hit again with another cost added on to their journeys."

"I have contacted both NCP [the firm which manages the car parks] and Abellio [Greater Anglia] to voice my concerns."

OUTRAGED: Harlow MP Robert Halfon has contacted NCP and Abellio Greater Anglia

"I regularly meet and speak with Abellio and will continue to work hard to get a better deal for residents."

Users of Bishop's Stortford station will have to fork out £1,467.51 for an annual parking permit, up from £1,334.10.

Cheshunt and Harlow Town car park users will also have to pay more than £100 extra from last year, with tickets costing £1,225.40 and £1,359.38 respectively.

Unchanged

Rates at some stations remain unchanged, but there are increases for Harlow Mill, Hertford East, Broxbourne and Newport station car parks.

A Greater Anglia spokesman said: "We have put up car park fees for the first time in two years."

"We offer parking season tickets which give a discount on daily fees."

NEW CHARGES

Station	Cost 2016	Cost 2017
Bishop's Stortford	£1,334.10	£1,467.51
Harlow Mill	£790	£896
Ware	£966.70	No change
Hertford East	£755.40	£815.88
Broxbourne	£1,098.70	£1,186.60
St Margaret's	£791.10	No change
Sawbridgeworth	£1,119.79	No change
Roydon	£695.50	No change
Cheshunt	£1,114.00	£1,225.40
Stansted Mountfitchet	£829.50	No change
Newport	£692.50	£747.90

"During our current franchise we are planning to invest nearly £60 million on improving stations."

"This includes creating 1,800 additional car parking spaces as we roll out automatic number plate recognition technology, which makes parking easier, quicker and more effective."

However, an online poll from readers of Herts and Essex News and Media showed 100 per cent of respondents were not satisfied with the changes.

Jane Britcher, from Harlow, said: "Years ago parking for anyone with a season ticket was free, until they discovered how much they could sting the passengers for."

Rip-off

Mark Thistlethwaite added: "It was a rip-off some 15 years ago, feel for those who use it now."

Patrick Newman commented on the Herts and Essex Observer's website to say: "Increase well above inflation. "It is a rip-off."

Woman raises £750 for Alzheimer's because her mum has lived with the disease for years

A WOMAN has raised more than £750 for the Alzheimer's Society. Hannah Hood, 30, from Harlow, held a Sunday singalong on behalf of her nan, Beatrice Hood, 85, who has had Alzheimer's for a number of years and is currently receiving care at Tye Green Lodge.

The event was held at The Herald Pub and invited guests to sing some of their favourite songs including tunes from The Supremes and some Christmas classics.

"The atmosphere was great on the day and it was massively successful," said Miss Hood.

"I got set up with the help from some of my Slimming World ladies and we put banners and balloons up, pom poms hanging from the ceiling and a tinsel curtain in the main singing area."

On the day, there was a raffle and children and face painting provided by one of Miss Hood's friends.

"My friend Charlotte Martin volunteered her time to do some face-painting for me," she said.

"She was an absolute hit and was very professional. She is just starting in that field and currently specialises in professional make-up."

"I also had over 70 prizes in the raffle which in the end looked really impressive and I think this helped generate interest."

"The vouchers were displayed on the wall behind the table and the ladies were very busy making sure everyone got the tickets they needed."

Alongside her fundraising event, Miss Hood also set up a Just Giving page which raised £150.

Her father also donated a cheque for £125 and along with a few other donations, Miss Hood raised a total of £758.81 for the Alzheimer's Society.

Miss Hood had her motivations behind the event reaffirmed when she began hearing people's stories relating to Alzheimer's at the event.

She explained: "I was told many stories of people that are currently dealing with a loved one who is suffering with the illness, all of differing types, levels and some who were unfortunately not going to benefit from the day as it was too late for them."

Miss Hood thanked Effie Maks, Carina's Slimming World, Andersons at Bush Fair, Burtons Baby Cakes, Fitness with SJ, Ali Barbers, Avant Garde, New York Nails, Quasar, Hawthorns Landscaping Services, Paringdon Sports Center, Mike Varney Physiotherapy, AJW Gas services, Mayfields Bakery, The Pamper Box, Flirt Studios, The Sports Therapy Clinic in Dunmow, TopGolf in Chigwell and Arsenal Ladies Football team, the Harlow branches of Nando's, Wilkinsons, Leisure Zone, Costa at Edinburgh Way and The Harvey Centre Tesco.

PLEDGES MADE: Prime Minister Theresa May

PM mental health care pledge 'not enough'

PLEDGES by Theresa May to overhaul mental health care do not go far enough, according to a Harlow councillor.

According to the Government, one in four people will experience a mental health issue in their life time, costing £105 billion annually.

Yesterday Mrs May, announced a swathe of reforms including better links between schools and the NHS, promising that no child will be sent away from their local area for treatment by 2021, and better support in the workplace.

Need

But Ian Beckett, Harlow Council's champion for mental health, said while he welcomed the pledge he was concerned no new resources had been provided. He said: "Identifying the need to do more work in schools and the workplace is good but hardly innovative."

"Because of campaigns largely by unions, charities and the voluntary sector, we already have some exemplary employers whose approach to mental health can be showcased and whose best practice can be shared."

"Similarly some of our schools have already invested time and money on developing expertise to respond to the emotional and mental health needs and wellbeing of their young people, but these are places where resources are as stretched to the same exorbitant limits as our NHS."

Harlow Running Club's Andy runs marathon 103

48-year-old has competed in epic races on all seven continents

CLUB: Andy has been a member of Harlow Running Club for over seven years

By Charlotte Page

A MEMBER of Harlow Running Club has taken part in marathons across all seven continents.

Andy Kinney, 48, has now completed 103 marathons and by braving the sub-zero temperatures of Zurich in a New Year half-marathon, his total of half-marathons tally is 117. Including the hundreds of other races he has run, Mr Kinney has now covered more than 5,000 miles.

"I'm not a fast runner, nor am I that interested in seeking a personal best time," said Mr Kinney.

"My interest lies in the experience, whether it be due to running with friends, or family, the location or the story."

Mr Kinney, a senior software engineer, admitted that choosing some of his favourites is particularly difficult.

Carrying

"The Marathon des Sables was a 150-mile, seven day race in the Sahara, carrying everything except our tent and water," he said.

"The race had it all, including points at which I really didn't think I'd finish, and that was on day one! At other points I wondered whether it would ever end. Temperatures peaked around 52°C on day two."

During that race, Mr Kinney raised £1,210 for Help for Heroes.

Mr Kinney recalls another favourite run being his 100th half marathon which was a family held event with his brother-in-law being one of the organisers.

"I go back to Northern Ireland at this time every year to run an event that I have completed since the first, hence it seemed fitting to choose this as the venue for my 100th half," he said.

"I'll always remember reaching the top of The Hill to find my name in chalk on the tarmac, akin to

MEDAL: Andy ran the Marathon des Sables in the Sahara

that found at the top of Tour de France climbs."

Other races of Mr Kinney include his first London Marathon in April 2000 when he raised more than £2,000 for Mencap as well as taking part in marathons and races in Antarctica, Chicago, Phuket, and Boston.

When he is not running worldwide, Mr Kinney is still an active member of Harlow Running Club and has been for over seven years, as well as being their web master.

Plan

Speaking of what he would like to achieve this year, Mr Kinney already has a plan.

"The marathons I have planned for 2017 are Kent Circuit in May and Patagonian in September."

He said: "In 2017, I will mostly be concentrating on the 5k to 10k distances so that I can complete my personal 4 by 100 challenge, which is 100 5ks, 100 10ks, 100 half marathons, and 100 marathons."

NEW BEAT? Stephen Kavanagh

Officer in running to be chief of Met Police

THE chief constable of Essex Police is reportedly in the running to be named the highest ranking officer in the country.

Stephen Kavanagh is considered among the favourites to replace Sir Bernard Hogan-Howe to become commissioner of the Metropolitan Police.

Applications closed on Wednesday and Essex Live reported the Essex chief, who began patrolling in London, has thrown his name into the ring to return to the capital.

If Mr Kavanagh got the job he could be set for a pay rise with the Met chief earning a £270,648-a-year salary. He would also be expected to make cuts of £400million to the force.

The decision is likely to be made by home secretary Amber Rudd after consulting with London mayor Sadiq Khan and the government.

Leader vows to help venue find new home

Council offer to assist Square's management team

By William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

THE leader of Harlow Council said the loss of The Square will be 'huge', but vowed to help find an alternative location.

Land in Fourth Avenue, Harlow, is due to make way for 69 properties after developer Circle Housing won an appeal against the council which previously blocked the move in January last year.

This means The Square, Harlow's best-known music venue, will hold a gig for the final time on Saturday, January 28. Councillor Jon Clempner said he was sad to see the closure.

In a statement this week the Labour council leader said: "We share residents' and local musicians' disappointment the hugely popular music venue The Square will be closing."

Loss

"There is no doubt The Square makes a fantastic contribution to culture in Harlow and its loss will be huge. That is one of the reasons why we refused Circle Anglia's planning application in January 2015."

The Square has faced an uncertain future for several years and

CLOSING: The Square in Harlow will host its last gig this month briefly closed last year before reopening. Cllr Clempner said Harlow Council put forward alternative sites to SquareOne, the management body who control The Square, but none were thought to be suitable.

He continued: "Our offer is still open to assist The Square's management and look at what support, including possible financial support, we could provide them if they find a suitable alternative venue."

"We have also arranged for business plan support to be given to The Square and provided advice on the company's future structure so it can attract other funding not currently available to it.

"As frustrating as it sounds, no council can give public money to private companies like The Square just like it cannot give pubs, nightclubs and shops money to continue operating."

Tickets have already sold out for the final gig which will see Eddie and the Hot Rods perform.

Cllr Clempner added: "If The Square's management does

WORKING HARD: Jon Clempner, leader of Harlow Council

regrettably decide not to carry on and run a similar venue elsewhere then the council will explore every avenue with other groups and organisations so that our young people's musical talent can be nurtured.

"However, Harlow Council will not be able to fund or directly provide a complete replacement live music venue like The Square. With continued government funding cuts, we are working hard to fund and maintain the many services and buildings we already provide the community."

WALK IN, FLOAT OUT? The cannabis factory discovered in Longfield, Harlow

Night shift raid finds drug farm

A CANNABIS factory was uncovered in Longfield, Harlow, prompting an Essex Police investigation.

Officers went to the property around 2am last Thursday and discovered a number of cannabis plants. The investigation is ongoing.

Sergeant Greg Jurkiewicz tweeted from the scene: "The A Team in Harlow don't sleep on quite (a) night shift." #Knockknock cannabis factory dismantled."

First birthday smiles for overjoyed family

Parents pay special thanks to sick children's hospital

A LITTLE girl born with her bowel on the outside of her body has celebrated her first birthday.

Paul and Fran Groves celebrated the birthday of their daughter, Sydney Rae Sophia, on Thursday last week.

The Harlow couple explained that when Sydney was born she had to receive urgent treatment for the condition that can affect one in 3,000 babies.

"At our 12-week scan it was revealed that our daughter Sydney had gastroschisis, a birth defect of the abdominal wall which meant some of our baby's organs would be outside of her body," said Mr Groves.

"It was scary to be told in the first scan that something wasn't right; it's the last thing you expect, and it's the last thing you want to hear."

With Sydney set to receive treatment at The Royal London Hospital, her parents were directed towards Stevenson House, a home run by The Sick Children's Trust which provides accommodation just a short distance from the hospital.

FAMILY: Paul and Fran Groves with daughter Sydney

ing there was a place just minutes from our baby's side, with a direct phone to her ward put our minds at rest.

"We could focus on the rest of the pregnancy and getting Sydney safely into the world."

Upon her arrival, Sydney was immediately treated by the hospital team.

"Her bowel was wrapped tightly to her body, with what looked like a special version of cling film, which would help protect it," said Mr Groves.

"She was then placed into an incubator and, before she was rushed off, we were lucky enough to be able to see her, take our first photos, and touch her.

"These were all things we didn't think would be possible, so we were completely and utterly overwhelmed."

Sydney underwent surgery and also had a central line fitted to feed her vital nutrients.

Sydney's parents have thanked Stevenson House for providing a home away from home at such a difficult time.

"The house was a complete life saver and offered us a secure home just minutes from Sydney's bedside. It gave us a chance to sit down, eat proper food, shower and get some sleep," said Mr Groves.

As Sydney gradually gained weight she was transferred back to Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital before heading home a week later.

"She is doing amazingly well," said Mr Groves. "She has, so far, no long-term effects of her condition and, all being well, she shouldn't need any further treatment."

Paul and Fran have been fundraising at Fran's beauty business Be Beautified, in Harlow.

"Stevenson House will always remain a huge part of our lives, not only because this was what kept us by our baby's bedside, but because of The Sick Children's Trust team - Alan and Irma.

"Alan and Irma gave us a cheerful and warm welcome every time we left in the morning and arrived back from the hospital, they always asked how we were and how Sydney was, which made us know someone cared," he added.

Multi-million pound offer to regenerate town centre

Housing association pledges support if 10,000 homes are approved

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE housing association behind Gilston Park Estate has pledged to invest millions of pounds into Harlow town centre.

Places For People will support regeneration with its own funds if the 10,000 home development, formerly known as Harlow North, is approved.

A spokesman said: "Places For People has committed to providing a multi-million pound Harlow Investment Fund from its own resources to support the town's regeneration."

The exact figure has not been disclosed and the housing association is yet to reveal how the money will be spent.

But a paragraph in a supporting document reads: "Gilston Park Estate will support the regeneration of Harlow town centre through financial support for initiative and increasing footfall in the area.

"More local customers will help make more local jobs viable, as well as attracting new businesses to the area and attracting investment.

"This will allow Harlow to reach its potential as a regional shopping centre, attracting spending from neighbouring towns and securing job growth.

Quality

"This will in turn improve the Harlow town centre experience for residents, supported by a broader, high quality local offer."

Places For People's proposal also sets out a £500million package for new infrastructure.

Members of pressure group Stop Harlow North have contested the plan on the grounds that it would destroy green belt land and would not have adequate infrastructure to support it.

Last week the government announced support for three garden towns

THE FUTURE: An artist's impression of how Harlow town centre could look nationally, including one to surround Gilston, Hunsdon, Much Hadham and Eastwick.

Robert Halfon, MP for Harlow, said Places For People's commitment to help regenerate the town centre was a key reason in why he backed the proposals.

He said: "This (project) is incredibly important for the future of Harlow. Places For People will help regenerate Harlow town centre."

Harlow, Epping Forest and East Herts councils have now all come out in favour of the proposal which could be signed off as part of local plans in March.

DRY JANUARY: Ian Beckett and Gareth Clement

Councillor's dry January sponsors plea

HARLOW councillor Ian Beckett has committed to giving up alcohol throughout January to raise money for a charity and feel healthier.

The former council chairman gave the money he saved to West Essex Alcohol and Drug Services (ADAS) when he completed 31 dry days in 2015.

This year he hopes to fundraise again for the Stow-based service which helps adults and children of families with alcohol problems.

Cllr Beckett said: "Last time I stuck to soft drinks not only did I start February feeling a lot healthier, but I donated the money I'd saved to ADAS which does some wonderful work in Harlow and surrounding areas."

The councillor will again be joined by ADAS chief executive Gareth Clement after the pair raised more than £1,000 two years ago.

Both men will donate money saved from not drinking alcohol but they are also hoping sponsors will support an online fundraising page - visit uk.virginmoneygiving.com/team/Ian_GarethDryJan2017

POPULAR: Harlow Parkrun. But is it on your list of things that make Harlow great?

Help us compile anniversary list of 70 things that make Harlow great

THIS year marks the 70th anniversary of Harlow New Town and the Star will be running a series of articles to celebrate.

The town has given so much to so many people since its inception in 1947 and we are asking you to contribute to a list of 70 things that make Harlow great.

Harlow Council is planning an event in the Town Park in March to celebrate the occasion with other events planned, but yet to be confirmed, as well.

From the Parkrun to Harlow Playhouse, and from Harlow Museum to The Water Gardens every resident has their own personal favourite thing about the town and the Star would like to know yours.

Julie Palmer, editor of the Harlow Star, said: "There are so many things that make Harlow great and it will be a pleasure to feature 70 of them in the next few weeks.

"Please keep sending in your favourite things about Harlow and we will put forward as many as we can in the lead up to Harlow's birthday in March."

Light in middle of footpath 'an absolute farce'

Resident upset at position of lamppost

POST IT: Christine Plume was angry about the new lamppost

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A DECISION to move a lamppost to the middle of a footpath has angered a Harlow resident.

After refuse lorries twice struck and damaged a street light in Byngams, Harlow, Essex Highways constructed the replacement further inside the pavement.

Contractors left the damaged light while they installed the new lamppost outside Christine Plume's home and she said: "This is an absolute farce. Apparently it seems lampposts can be placed in the middle of footpaths, old lampposts are not removed before new ones are installed.

"The damaged post has been bent and without a light for months. The post cannot be sited on the edge of the garden due to placement of utilities which is fair enough.

"But it should be placed on the edge of the pavement like every other post in the area.

"It is totally unreasonable to have a post in the middle of the footpath right in front of our living room window."

She added: "I included the MP in my complaint but he responded that Essex Highways need to place it in the middle of the path because the post has been hit twice in ten years.

"But he did not know that it was utility vehicles that caused the damage, not cars or residents."

Safety issues

A spokesman for Essex Highways said: "After this light was hit twice by refuse lorries we decided to move it back away from the edge of the road to avoid further safety issues.

"Its new position, three metres clear of the path, is enough to allow pushchairs and mobility scooters to pass.

"Because the new light is installed in the same position of the pavement there will be minimal difference to the effect on the garden and nearby house."

■ DISABILITIES

Campaigner is to be praised

ANNE Wafula Strike is to be congratulated on publicising her problems about toilets on Virgin Trains ('Paralympian Anne is humiliated on train' - Star January 5, 2017).

Sadly this is not an isolated issue for disabled people and wheelchair users.

An accessible toilet has a large space next to the toilet bowl to park a wheelchair for the user to slide across.

But the vast majority of these toilets are made disabled or out of use by the building owners because the space is blocked with bins or boxes.

Despite numerous reminders the building owners ignore the needs of the less able and continue to make the toilets inaccessible.

Despite having a special Public Duty Care under the Equality Act 2010, the toilets in the Civic Centre are a prime casualty.

The accessible toilets on the upper floor of the Harvey Centre are now locked - with a key at the office some 500 metres away - if there is someone there.

So what are wheelchair users to do? Stay at home and not take the risk?

Dehydrate themselves and avoid the need for a toilet break? Ask politely for the transfer space to be kept clear, which hasn't worked?

Or make a mess of themselves and try and humiliate the toilet provider - but long after the event?

The Harlow Area Access Group tries to fight for disabled people to have independence, with an Act which has lots of good intentions but no teeth. Are we a fair and equal society? We think not.

Chairman, Harlow Area Access Group

Then on page two in the same issue he supports building thousands of houses which will submerge the villages he holds so dear.

The villages and the green belt will disappear, lost forever in an attempt to quell the insatiable demand for homes, not helped by 300,000 people coming every year to settle in the UK or this government's lack of policy to control this vast influx of people.

■ ART

Could council buy the mural?

THE vast wooden mural depicting scenes and buildings from Harlow life is still locked up in the deserted BHS building in the Harvey Centre, as far as we know.

This mural, commissioned to celebrate the Queen's visit in the 1950s, is one of a number made by husband and wife Henry and Joyce Collins for several retail premises in different Essex towns.

There is nowhere in the town with a big enough wall to house it, with one exception - the Council Chamber in the Civic Centre has a very large, very bare, rear wall, and this acquisition would fit in very appropriately with the town's history on display.

The ownership of the work may be in doubt - probably any proceeds from the sale would go to the creditors, who would be glad to get their money back, and bearing in mind the size of the piece there would not be many bidders.

The council would be well-placed to buy it at a reasonable price for the enjoyment of the all the people of Harlow.

The Friends of Harlow Sculpture and the Gibberd Gallery are keen to see this work find a new and accessible place in the centre of Harlow.

We call on the council to find out who it belongs to, and to secure it for the town so all can enjoy it.

Barbara Burge

■ TRANSPORT

Motorway junction rejig

NOW that our government has given outline approval for the creation of a garden village on the Harlow North area maybe our planners at Essex County Council should revise their plans for the M11 Jct 7A.

Rather than fill all the roads from Old Harlow to Eastwick it is now plain to see that the route should be Jct 7A to Eastwick.

This was the County Council's plan B but should now be their plan A to coincide with this new growth at Harlow North.

There will be plenty of opposition to Harlow North and the new A414 route but hopefully their planning permissions should coincide bringing new prosperity to our town and relief from the congestion on the A414 through the town.

■ GILSTON PARK

Garden town plan is a 'joke'

I WAS shocked by the weakness of the arguments supporting the proposed development of a 10,000 home town around Gilston, south of Sawbridgeworth on green belt land, to the north of Harlow.

To call it a 'garden' town is just a joke, it will be a town with at least 30,000 people and 20,000 vehicles.

This development will eventually connect Harlow up to Sawbridgeworth.

How many people would like that?

The paper accompanied its article with the developer's impressions of couples walking arm-in-arm, in wide, totally traffic-free streets amongst well-spaced blocks of flats, as birds fly serenely overhead.

This is laughable, we all know it would be nothing like that.

Harlow's MP Robert Halfon is quoted in the paper's piece on Gilston as saying this development is 'incredibly important for Harlow'.

Councillor Clempner, Harlow Council leader, claims 'it will make a vital contribution to the regeneration of Harlow'.

Why is it important that development of green belt land in the county to the north is good for Harlow?

Shouldn't Harlow's developments take place within its borders and near to its centre?

Robert Halfon continues to praise the developers, oh, sorry not developers, but the housing association called Places for People, as they will create a sustainable development.

What does that mean? If all this development takes place there, shouldn't people ask what will happen to Harlow itself? Shouldn't money be put into those areas of Harlow that need regeneration?

The reality is that planners want to make a lot of money building a sizeable town less than ten miles from Bishop's Stortford, which has no station, no schools, no motorway connection, gobbles up the countryside and yet is seen in some indescribable way by local politicians as somehow good for Harlow.

As for East Herts Council, they were against it in 2010, now they favour it.

Have people in East Herts' surrounding towns and villages no choice in being encroached on by Harlow? Shame we can't have a referendum about this proposal!

Councils unite in support of plans for 10,000 homes

Joint statement gives the thumbs up to 'garden town' proposals

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THREE district councils have united in support for a 10,000-home garden town to be built near Gilston.

In a joint statement, symbolic in the pending publication of respective local plans, Harlow, East Herts and Epping Forest councils backed the government's locally-led garden town fund.

Ministers have supported the building of garden towns and granted £500,000 to the three local authorities for a development surrounding Gilston, Much Hadham, Eastwick and Hunsdon.

Despite claims from pressure group Stop Harlow North that the Gilston Park plans will destroy green space and cannot be supported, council leaders agreed the homes were needed.

Jon Clempner, Labour leader of Harlow Council, said: "Harlow Council has clear ambitions to regenerate Harlow and believes growth, particularly to Harlow's north, would contribute to the development of the town in its role as the sub-regional centre.

"This initiative is a huge opportunity for Harlow and the surrounding areas to provide much needed housing and infrastructure improvements which will all contribute to the regeneration of Harlow."

The funding will play a part in establishing a strategic team to oversee the progression, as well as funding research and support to implement the plan.

But it will also be used to address issues such as road access to the M11 and A414, River Stort crossing improvements, water use and healthcare – all key concerns of Stop Harlow North.

Communities

The joint statement stressed that local communities would be involved in the development of the master plan.

Linda Haysey, leader of East Herts Council, said: "The funding will enable us to take the first steps in scoping out how the garden town could look.

"[It will allow us to] explore sustainable transport, homes for a range of sizes, needs and affordability, health provision and all the other elements that go towards a successful community.

"It will also allow us make sure we're fully engaged with residents who might be directly

THINGS TO COME: A Places For People artist's impression of how the new development could look affected by the proposals." John Philip, planning portfolio holder for Epping Forest District Council, added: "The regeneration of Harlow is key to the success of our region.

"The whole area will benefit from the coordinated strategic provision of new homes, employment and social infrastructure in and around Harlow." Andrew Johnson, leader of Harlow Council's opposing Conservative group, said: "The Harlow Conservative group has always been in favour of development to the north of the town, rather than in other areas around Harlow.

"This announcement from the Conservative government is most welcome and will hopefully help continue to drive the economic redevelopment of the town.

"However any extension to the town should be fully integrated as part of Harlow and clearly infrastructure must be delivered before or at the same time as any new development."

IN BRIEF

999 calls are a record-breaker

Operators for the East Of England Ambulance Service (EAST) received nearly 800 more calls than last year from 7pm on Christmas Eve to 11pm on Boxing Day.

Sandy Brown, director of nursing and clinical quality at EAST, said: "I am thankful to our teams for the hard work they are putting into responses to patients. With demand up so much higher than last year their commitment really does shine through."

Students celebrate their achievements

STUDENTS from Sir Charles Kao UTC joined other schools for an event at the House of Commons.

Social mobility and education charity Access Aspiration hosted the student prize-giving and celebration and welcomed 30 pupils from 13 schools.

Excellence

The event, which celebrated academic excellence of students, was hosted by South Ribblesdale MP Seema Kennedy.

Ulric Jerome, chief executive of Matches Fashion, spoke to guests and presented certificates.

Sofia Gattuso and Kenneth Urgel were two students from the technical college in Velizy Avenue, Harlow, to pick up an award from Mr Jerome.

A spokesman from Access Aspiration, which help students from poorer backgrounds attain a work placement, said: "Mr Jerome spoke engagingly to guests explaining how valuable and vital the work placement students are to Matches Fashion's business."

"He explained that for the partnership between Access Aspiration and Matches Fashion to succeed it had to be mutually beneficial. He went on to stress that the students play a vital role helping their business to see fresh perspectives."

AWARDED: Sofia Gattuso of Sir Charles Kao UTC with Matches Fashion chief executive Ulric Jerome

Aiming to inspire would-be teachers

Primary school looking to the future for staff

BUDDING TEACHERS: George Taylor and Ben Stanley complete a programme at Pembroley Academy

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A PRIMARY school has launched an initiative to encourage more individuals into teaching.

Pembroley Academy in Hodings Road, Harlow, is now operating a Teaching Futures programme which seeks to use current undergraduates or postgraduates in volunteer positions.

Applicants who enjoy the experience may then wish to become trainee teachers.

Headteacher Neil Coster said: "Teaching Futures is not a new concept as more and more schools are having to run programmes like this one to futureproof themselves."

"Essentially there are not enough young graduates coming into the profession. This is our way of trying to engage with them from the point of when they are at university and support them through to trainee positions."

Teaching Futures will place the graduates in particular year groups to run projects with a whole school focus.

This will be combined with visits to different primary and senior schools and participation in the Essex teacher training sessions to get a full flavour of what it is like in a school.

Programme

Pembroley currently has students George Taylor and Ben Stanley on the programme.

Mr Coster added: "We have two young men on the programme. One has finished a degree and the other is reading English at university as we speak. It is my hope that even if they do not stay within our school they will stay in teaching locally, which ultimately benefits the community as a whole."

PHOTOGRA-TREE: Students from Stewards Academy took images in the Gibberd Garden

Garden inspires happy snappers

THE Gibberd Garden proved an inspiring setting for photography students.

Year 9 pupils of Stewards Academy in Parnall Road, Harlow, ventured out on a misty morning to the space in First Avenue for an enjoyable shoot.

The objective was to develop an understanding and photographic technique.

The 13 and 14 year olds used a sculpture trail organised by the garden's volunteers to record photographs of the art pieces alongside their natural environment.

Stewart Li, who teaches photography, said: "I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Gibberd Garden for their support and for preparing the gardens for our visit."

"An enjoyable photography trip was had by all."

Potter quiz brain teaser

TWENTY years after Harry Potter was first published, Stewards Academy students celebrated a modern classic in their reading week.

Teachers at the secondary school, in Parnall Road, Harlow, laid on anagrams, riddles and a guess the spell quiz on all things Hogwarts (the magical school Harry attended).

Marija Bogdanova proved the Stewards equivalent of intelligent character Hermione Granger by scoring an impressive 29 out of 30 on the fiendish Potter quiz.

Roisin O'Grady, literacy coordinator, said: "The week is an excellent opportunity to promote reading throughout the school, as well literacy in general through engagement in literacy and brain teasers."

Pupils' play celebrates 400 years of the Bard

WILLIAM Shakespeare classic Romeo and Juliet was performed by students to celebrate 400 years of the Bard.

Sixteen pupils at Burnt Mill Academy in First Avenue, Harlow, joined casts from three other secondary schools for the Shakespeare Schools Festival.

A group from each school produced a 30-minute version of a different Shakespeare play at Harlow Playhouse theatre.

Burnt Mill's performance incorporated Japanese sword play, used electronic music and highlighted themes of sexism and patriarchy.

Teacher Phil Watson directed the play and said the changes gave the piece a contemporary but timeless look and feel. He said: "The cast all brought a youthful intensity to Shakespeare's lines, allowing us to tell this well-known story in a vital way, challenging the audience to experience it anew."

Challenge

"I think that the important thing about the Shakespeare Schools Festival is that it challenges teachers and students to interpret Shakespeare's plays within strict limitations of time and resources."

"This process gives students a vital and personal insight into what is essential and enduring in Shakespeare's plots and language."

Jury's still out on Post Office future

THE Post Office has confirmed a final decision has not yet been made about the future of the Harlow Crown branch.

Last year a consultation was held about plan to move the office in Stone Cross, Harlow, to WH Smiths in Broad Walk. It ended in November and a move was expected in February.

On Tuesday the Post Office announced 37 Crown high street branches would be closed or franchised nationally. The list included Hoddesdon and Bishop's Stortford, but not Harlow.

The Post Office has now clarified in a statement that it is considering feedback before a final decision is reached. No date for this has been set.

New assault appeal on nine-year anniversary

Police still hunting attacker who struck teen with metal bar

By William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

NINE years after attackers hit a 13-year-old girl with a metal pole, police are still hoping to find answers.

Around 5pm on Sunday, January 8, 2008, the girl and a 14-year-old boy stopped along a cycle path from Tawneys Road to Great Brays when they were struck by an attacker yet to be brought to justice.

The girl was struck twice on the head and knocked to the ground by the force of impact. She suffered two deep gashes which required 12 stitches.

The boy also suffered head injuries requiring stitches after being struck over the head about six times.

Problem

The pair had a BMX and had pulled over to fix a problem with the bike's light.

The suspect, who ran from the scene empty-handed, is described as a white male, between 25 and 30 years old, and had brown stubble. He was wearing black trousers and new-looking white trainers.

Essex Police has launched a renewed appeal on the ninth anniversary.

Detective Sergeant Leo Fordham said: "We're revisiting the case on the anniversary of the crime to see if anyone might have any memory or knowledge of what happened.

CRIME SCENE: Great Brays, close to where the attack took place

"This was an unprovoked and particularly vicious attack on two innocent children, and nine years on we're still keen to find out who did this. Someone must know something, and if this appeal brings back some memories then we want to hear from you."

■ Anyone with information, particularly people walking their dogs who were seen in the area at the time, should call Harlow Police Station on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Sky's the limit for elephant

AFTER losing part of her front leg, a baby elephant in Thailand has finally learnt to walk again. Orphaned five-year-old, Clear Sky, got her leg caught in an animal trap that was put out by villagers who were guarding their crops.

Her leg never healed properly as she was unable to put weight on it following her injury.

To mend her broken foot and strengthen the muscles in it, Clear Sky began receiving hydrotherapy at an animal hospital in the Chonburi province.

This type of water therapy involves a special swimming pool and Clear Sky is the first elephant to have this type of treatment.

A harness is used to keep her afloat.

Elephants usually love the water and use their trunks like snorkels when they swim but Clear Sky was said to be a bit nervous and scared about going in the water for the first time.

She wrapped her trunk around one of her helpers for support as her session came to an end.

Fortunately, she calmed down in the second session and she will get more confident and have more fun as her therapy continues.

PROGRESS: Orphan elephant Clear Sky has learnt to walk again. Her vet has said that she is showing clear signs of improvement yet her treatment could take up to two months.

Judge who swore back cleared of misconduct

'Remarks did not warrant any disciplinary sanction'

By William Mata and Tom Dare
william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A JUDGE who swore back at a racist man in a heated court exchange has been cleared of misconduct.

John Hennigan, 50, of Brockles Mead, Harlow, was being sentenced at Chelmsford Crown Court for breaching an ASBO by using racist language towards a Caribbean woman and her two young children.

Partway through the hearing in August he called judge Patricia Lynch QC 'a bit of a c' but astonishingly she replied 'you are a bit of a c yourself'.

Hennigan yelled back 'go f yourself', to which Judge Lynch responded 'you too'.

Salute

He later performed a Nazi salute and banged on the glass panel of the dock shouting 'Sieg Heil'.

To this Judge Lynch sarcastically said: "We are all very impressed. Take him down."

She jailed him for 18 months. Hennigan's ASBO breach was his ninth in 11 years.

The ASBO was given in 2005 and prohibits him from acting in an anti-social way or from using racist language.

IN THE CLEAR: Judge Patricia Lynch QC swore at a Harlow man

Conduct Investigations Office (JCIO). She later apologised.

A report on the incident was referred to the Lord Chief Justice, Lord Thomas of Cwmgiedd, and the Lord Chancellor, Justice Secretary Liz Truss.

After clearing her the JCIO released a statement reading: "Although the Lord Chancellor and the Lord Chief Justice considered HHJ Lynch's remarks to be inappropriate, they did not find they amounted to misconduct or warranted any disciplinary sanction."

Hennigan has dozens of previous convictions for offences – including drug and firearm possession and common assault.

SMILES: 2nd Great Parndon Scouts

Scouts drop in to learn more about dementia

THE 2nd Great Parndon Scout Group has been working over the past four months alongside staff and residents of Alexandra House care home to understand more about dementia.

In a special session organised by the scouts just before Christmas, the group held tea and a Christmas quiz while they learnt about the condition and how it affects people. The Beavers and Cubs also made pine cone Christmas trees, decorated glasses and wrote Christmas cards which they delivered to all 107 residents in the home.

Group Scout leader, Nigel Apps, said: "It is important that Beavers, Cubs and Scouts are involved in working within the community. Our partnership with Alexandra House has shown their commitment to understanding the needs of the residents."

Sarah Pettit from Alexandra House added: "We were really touched by the efforts of everyone."

Absorbing story of loss and guilt

STUDY OF GRIEF: Casey Affleck as Lee and Lucas Hedges as Joe

Manchester By The Sea

DRAMA: (15) 137 minutes
Director: Kenneth Lonergan
Starring: Casey Affleck, Lucas Hedges, Michelle Williams, Kyle Chandler, Gretchen Mol, CJ Wilson, Josh Hamilton

ANGUISHED silences between members of a fractured Massachusetts family speak volumes about the loss of a son in writer-director Kenneth Lonergan's elegiac drama.

Set in and around the titular coastal community, Manchester By The Sea eloquently explores universal themes of grief, guilt and sexual awakening through the eyes of a 40-year-old handyman whose outlook on life is as threadbare and tattered as the winter jacket he wears atop his overalls.

Lonergan sketches his internally conflicted central character with patience and precision, gifting a peach of a role to Casey Affleck, who seems destined to triumph at this year's Oscars for his nuanced, emotionally raw portrayal of a man who has been battered and bruised by the past.

Every close-up of Affleck's eyes, glistening with regret, tug at the heartstrings until the sense of loss and abandonment becomes almost intolerable.

Men of few words are the best men and in Lonergan's lean script, his characters frequently say everything with a mournful stare or hesitant attempt at consolation.

Lee Chandler (Affleck) works as a janitor in a small apartment building in Chicago, where his chores include shovelling snow, changing lightbulbs and unblocking toilets of emotionally needy women.

It's an unedifying existence and Lee unfairly channels his resentment at the tenants.

Out of the blue, Lee receives a telephone call from family friend George (CJ Wilson).

His older brother Joe (Kyle Chandler) has suffered a heart attack.

By the time Lee arrives at the hospital, Joe has passed and the younger sibling must break the tragic news to his truculent 16-year-old nephew, Patrick (Lucas Hedges).

A meeting with family lawyer Wes (Josh Hamilton) reveals that Joe named Lee as Patrick's legal guardian.

"It was supposed to be my Uncle Donny. I was just the back-up," mumbles Lee, who is reluctant to be a parent again after the breakdown of his marriage to Randi (Michelle Williams).

Lee and his teenage ward muddle through grief and misunderstanding as they make preparations for Joe's funeral including a chance for Patrick to say farewell to his father at the mortuary.

"What does he look like?" asks the 16-year-old.

"He looks like he's dead," responds Lee.

TOUCHING

Manchester By The Sea is anchored by Affleck's understated yet devastating portrayal, and the touching on-screen chemistry with co-star Hedges.

Awkwardness between the generations is perfectly conveyed in Lonergan's dialogue, like when Patrick has a tense reconciliation with his mother Elise (Gretchen Mol) and her devoutly religious new partner (Matthew Broderick).

"What was the guy like?" asks Lee during the drive home.

"He was very Christian," deadpans the teenager.

Co-star Williams is a potent maternal force in her few scenes, desperate to salve the deep wounds of an accidental and tragic past.

At 137 minutes, Lonergan's film does feel slightly overlong. Self-realisation, if it ever comes, takes time.

SONG AND DANCE: Emma Stone as Mia Dolan and Ryan Gosling as Sebastian Wilder in Damien Chazelle's musical La La Land

Magical musical

La La Land

MUSICAL: (12A) 128 minutes
Director: Damien Chazelle
Starring: Ryan Gosling, Emma Stone, John Legend, Rosemarie DeWitt, JK Simmons

THE frenzied expectation surrounding writer-director Damien Chazelle's musical love story was deafening before La La Land won a record seven Golden Globe awards earlier this week.

His impeccably crafted follow-up to Whiplash is now firmly installed as the frontrunner for glory at next month's Oscars, and already has one trembling hand on the coveted golden statuettes for Best Picture and Best Director.

The feverish hype is fully justified.

La La Land is a visually sumptuous, unabashedly swooning valentine to the golden age of Hollywood musicals, artfully constructed on a foundation of distinctly modern sensibilities.

Yes, characters burst into catchy songs composed by Justin Hurwitz, with snappy lyrics by Benj Pasek and Justin Paul, to express their churning emotions, while their bodies tap, pirouette, twist and jive to Mandy Moore's expressive choreography.

But there is so much more to Chazelle's story of boy meets girl than doe-eyed glances and pat sentiment, including a heart-wrenching second act that affirms the need for everyone to chase their dreams, but also acknowledges the acrid pill we must swallow when reality bites, down to the bone.

Aspiring actress Mia (Emma Stone) works as a barista in between auditions, which repeatedly end in crushing rejection.

On a traffic-jammed Los Angeles freeway, she crosses paths with talented pianist Sebastian (Ryan Gosling), who reverses jazz in its purest form, but is forced to play saccharine standards by restaurant owner Bill (JK Simmons).

"I hate jazz," Mia tells Sebastian after they meet at a party in the Hollywood hills, where they share dreams for the future beneath the twinkling stars of the Californian night sky.

Sebastian is convinced he can spearhead a new appreciation for music until an old classmate, Keith (John Legend), questions his devotion to masters of a bygone era.

"You're holding onto the past," laments Keith, "but jazz is about the future."

While Mia prepares to stage her semi-autobiographical one-woman show So Long, Boulder City, Sebastian agrees to play keyboard in Keith's soulless, chart-friendly band The Messengers.

Frustrations between the couple come to a head in a fractious to and fro about artistic integrity.

"Since when do you care so much about being liked?" snarls Mia.

"You're an actress!" Sebastian angrily reminds her.

La La Land is a perfect marriage of directorial brio, tour-de-force performance and jaw-dropping production design.

Gosling and Stone are individually luminous and electrifying as a double-act in high energy song and dance sequences.

Both are gifted emotionally wrought solos – City Of Stars and Audition (The Fools Who Dream) respectively – that galvanize Sebastian and Mia's perilously fragile romance.

Chazelle's film is a bitter and sweet confection in equal doses, laced with dry wit and an appreciation for the tug of war between love and career advancement that necessitates painful self-sacrifices for either side to triumph.

Perils of modern parenting

Captain Fantastic

Available now on Amazon Video/iTunes/Sky Store/TalkTalk TV Store and other download and streaming services, available from January 23 on DVD £19.99/Blu-ray £24.99

Ben Cash (Viggo Mortensen) and his wife Leslie (Trin Miller) raise their six-strong brood in relative isolation so their children won't be tainted by capitalism or organised religion. The youngsters – Bodevan (George MacKay), Kielyr (Samantha Isler), Vespvr (Annalise Basso), Rellian (Nicholas Hamilton), Zaja (Shree Crooks) and Nai (Charlie Shotwell) – learn to live off the land and fire their imaginations by reading classics like The Brothers Karamazov.

Alas, Leslie has bipolar disorder and eventually takes her own life while undergoing hospital treatment. Ben wants to take the children to the funeral, but Leslie's father Jack (Frank Langella) forbids him from attending. "Grandpa can't oppress us," argues Zaja and the family boards their ramshackle bus and heads to New Mexico to give Leslie the Buddhist cremation she wanted.

Captain Fantastic is a heartfelt and bittersweet meditation on the perils of modern parenting, which lives up the superlative of its title. Mortensen's magnificent portrayal of a patriarch, who worries he might be ruining his children's lives, is matched by mesmerising performances from young co-stars, including London-born MacKay. They gel magnificently on screen and relish snappy dialogue that sensitively addresses the fresh wounds of an unconventional family wrestling with that most universal of feelings: loss.

Writer-director Matt Ross's script compels us to care deeply about the wounded characters as they search for peace and unity in a world of bitter conflict.

The tussle between idealism and sobering reality provides the film with its narrative thrust and tearful outpourings of raw emotion.

Bridget Jones's Baby

Available on Amazon Video/iTunes/Sky Store and other download and streaming services from January 16, available from January 30 on DVD £19.99/Blu-ray £24.99

Bridget Jones (Renee Zellweger) careers at high speed towards her 43rd birthday without a wedding ring on her finger. She works as a producer at Hard News alongside old boss Richard Finch (Neil Pearson) and newscaster pal Miranda (Sarah Solemani), who suggests a hedonistic girls-only weekend at a music festival.

The pals descend on a muddy field, which Miranda pithily describes as "Sodom and Gomorrah... with tofu". A late-night blunder into the wrong yurt leads to a spontaneous coupling with a handsome American love guru called Jack Quant (Patrick Dempsey).

A few days later, Bridget is powerless to resist the silky charms of old flame Mark Darcy (Colin Firth), who is separating from his wife. A pregnancy test at work confirms Bridget is about to become a mum, if only she knew who the father was... Bridget Jones's Baby throws a warm, affectionate and frequently hilarious baby shower for characters we've grown to love, and proves Bridget is no closer to achieving her Happy Ever After. Zellweger slips back into the title role with ease, oozing lovability, fragility and regret as she wonders how to broach the subject of paternity with her two suitors.

Dempsey and Firth are attractive rivals for Bridget's brittle affections and the script keeps us guessing as long as possible about the course of true love.

Set-pieces, including a tussle with a revolving door, are genuinely hysterical and Emma Thompson nabs several of the best lines as Bridget's despairing obstetrician. The third film may have taken 12 years to come but the wait has been worth it.

Hunt For The Wilderpeople

Signature Entertainment, available now on Amazon Video/iTunes/Sky Store/TalkTalk TV Store and other download and streaming services, available from January 16 on DVD £17.99/Blu-ray £19.99

Deranged social services worker Paula (Rachel House) and her police officer sidekick Andy (Oscar Kightley) place 13-year-old tearaway Ricky (Julian Dennison) with clucky farm wife Bella (Rima Te Wiata) and her grumpy husband Hector (Sam Neill). A tragic twist of fate threatens to send Ricky to the nearest juvenile detention centre.

So Hector heads into the bush with his young ward and their trusty dogs, Zag and Tupac. Their disappearance sparks a nationwide manhunt led by Paula, who has never lost a child in her care. "I'm the Terminator," she tells Ricky when they eventually cross paths.

"You're more like Sarah Connor... in the first movie... before she could do chin-ups."

Hunt For The Wilderpeople is a quirky buddy comedy and an uproarious adaptation of Barry Crump's coming-of-age novel, Wild Pork And Watercress.

New Zealand writer-director Taika Waititi's snappy script retains a similar structure of ten chapters and an epilogue, which neatly bookmark the characters' turbulent journey of self-discovery into pithy vignettes.

The central duo's random encounters in the outback, including a conspiracy theorist (Rhys Darby) and a rampaging wild boar, are just as likely to end in death as delirium.

QUIRKY BUDDY COMEDY: Julian Dennison and Sam Neill in Hunt For The Wilderpeople

Waititi walks this tightrope between heartfelt sentimentality and spiky reality with aplomb. Even the macabre haikus, which Ricky composes to express his emotions, possess a raw charm. The endearing relationship between the mismatched fugitives, portrayed with razor sharp comic timing by Neill and Dennison, energises every glorious frame.

BIG EVENT: Independent Venue Week

Up and coming acts lined up for penultimate Square show

ICONIC: The Square in Harlow. (Right) The Metatrons, will be headlining the final Independent Venue Week

THREE appropriately up and coming bands have been lined up for the final Independent Venue Week celebration at The Square.

The Metatrons, Garden Room and the difficult to write H_NGM_N (pronounced hangman) are set to perform at the venue in Fourth Avenue, Harlow, on Friday, January 27.

Concert organisers The Hit Cave brought the bands together for their last collaboration with The Square, which is set to close in its current location the same weekend.

Ronan Kehoe, coordinator of The Hit Cave, said: "We will bring three brilliant bands to The Square as part of Independent Venue Week, a national celebration of independent music venues."

"This show will be the last Hit Cave promotion to take place at The Square. It will also be the penultimate show to take place in the building overall."

"It has been a pleasure to work with The Square and we're very grateful to have been able to do so."

But while the occasion has a sad twinge The Hit Cave organisers are determined to enjoy the final night with a party.

Topping the bill, The Metatrons are an exciting outfit from Hitchin who specialise in 1980s and 1990s-influenced alternative rock and pop.

Ronan said: "We're very excited to bring them to Harlow for the first time and we know they're gonna put on a great show."

He added: "Our middle band is local boys Garden Room. This lot have played their own brand of indie punk at The Hit Cave before and we're happy to have them back again."

"Our openers are Brighton based two-piece H_NGMN_N. We've had them on our radar for ages now and it's great to finally book them for their first ever show in Essex."

After the bands finish, DJs lined up by The Hit Cave organisers will play all sorts of tracks until 3am in what will be the final chance for punters to catch a Friday night out at The Square.

Independent Venue Week will run throughout the last week of January at concert halls up and down the country. The project, supported by Arts Council England, is designed to bring in gig virgins.

The initiative is supported by new music guru Steve Lamacq while The Charlatans frontman Tim Burgess is the ambassador for this year's event.

Ronan, who is also a member of band Don't Worry, said new music will not stop when The Square closes its base.

"The news of their permanent closure is very sad," he continued. "However, The Hit Cave will carry on putting on shows in Harlow and elsewhere after The Square's closure and we already have lots of plans for the coming months."

"We're excited for the future and we encourage people to stay tuned in to our social media pages to find out where and when our next shows will be."

To follow The Hit Cave on social media visit facebook.com/hitcave or search @thehitcave on Twitter and Instagram.

Doors open from 8pm and tickets (costing £6 in advance) can be bought from thesquareharlow.com/

Local writers are invited to 'come and give it a go'

"It is about encouraging local writers to come and give it a go," said Simon Anderson about Write Here! Write Now! – the Herts and Essex Festival of Playwriting.

The artistic director of Contexture Theatre, the company organising the event, challenged Harlow and Bishop's Stortford residents to put forward a written play of 20 minutes or less.

And the community responded. Simon and his team have sifted through the entries and picked out a shortlist of 16 which will all be performed across four nights of theatre.

The first four plays will be performed at Harlow Playhouse on Monday, February 6 and the second four plays will be performed the next night – both from 7.30pm.

The second night will also feature a performance of Cracked, a play written by Carly Godfrey-Bridger, which was the winner of the Herts and Essex Festival of Playwriting last year.

On Wednesday, February 8 and Thursday, February 9 the third and fourth set of four plays will be performed at Rhodes Theatre in Bishop's Stortford – both from 7.30pm.

Again, the latter night will feature a performance of Cracked.

Simon and fellow industry experts will be keeping a close eye on the performances as part of a judging panel who will decide a winner from four age categories.

These are primary (ages five to 11), secondary (12 to 18), young people (19-24) and adult (aged 25 and over). Contexture will then look to develop the winning plays with an eye on a stage run.

SUCCESS: Katrina Smith-Jackson's play will be performed

"I think there is a lot of potential," said Simon on this year's entries. "We looked not for a finished piece of work, it is supposed to be people having a go at this for the first time."

"We are looking for potential which we can develop into something on stage."

The festival is an enormous undertaking for Simon and his team with an ensemble of amateur actors needed to fill the parts of all 16 shows.

Simon added: "We have about 20 of them, it is a large community. We cast it. We have a duty to the writers to realise the piece as well as we possibly can.

"All the plays have a 20 minute limit. A good thing from the audience's point of view is that they have four or five plays in one night."

"It is a big variety of shows and presents a lot of what theatre has got to offer. The only way we can make our money back is by getting an audience there."

Indeed Contexture Theatre needs community support to help bring through the next generation of talent.

And the company is keen to ensure no one is priced out with Rhodes performances costing £10 for adults and £6 for under 18s while Harlow Playhouse showings are performed as part of Pay What You Can – where punters can make a donation at the end.

Simon said the group is still looking for actors to join the cast. To take part email simon@contexturetheatre.com

For more information and bookings call (Harlow Playhouse) on (01279) 431945 or visit harlowplayhouse.com or call (Rhodes) on (01279) 710200 or visit rhodesbishopsstortford.org.uk

PERFORMANCE: The Moot House Players are returning to the stage

Group is back by popular demand for performance of music hall

THE Moot House Players are set to return to the stage by popular demand with their version of an eclectic old time music hall.

Music hall is a form of British theatrical entertainment made popular in the early Victorian era with its combination of arts including music and melodrama.

Director and chairman for the performances, Michael Branwell, said: "At the end of January we will put on a good, old-fashioned music hall."

"There will be individual numbers, duets, monologues and lots of favourites including our cockney favourites."

Music for the show will be provided by renowned pianist and choir mistress, Sarah Wiggins, who will take her seat at the pianoforte for the performances held across three nights.

With rehearsals well underway, many of the acts have used the Christmas period to perfect their routine.

"Rehearsals are a joy and I left our last rehearsal really filled with optimism," said Mr Branwell.

Audiences are also encouraged to get involved with a script for certain acts being provided so that everyone can join in.

Mr Branwell added: "The audience are very welcome to dress up."

"Of course they don't have to, but it is always fun to dress up."

Full of Joys: Old Time Music Hall will take place at Moot Hall, The Stow from Thursday, January 26 until Saturday, January 28.

Performances begin at 8pm.

Full price tickets cost £10 and concessions are £8.

Tickets are also available on the door but are subject to availability.

Fresh thinking from Donal

Donal Skehan has just published a new book - here are three fabulous recipes from Eat. Live. Go. - Fresh Food Fast. .

Orange, Feta, Coriander and Barley Salad

SERVES 4

Ingredients

250g pearl barley
1 pomegranate
3-4 large oranges
1 large red onion, thinly sliced
200g feta cheese, crumbled into chunks
Large handful of fresh mint, roughly chopped
Large handful of fresh coriander, roughly chopped

For the dressing:

6tbsp extra-virgin olive oil
Zest and juice of one lemon
2 garlic cloves, finely grated
2tbsp pomegranate molasses
Sea salt and freshly ground black pepper

Method

Place the pearl barley in a pan and cover with water. Place over a medium-high heat and bring to the boil. Reduce the heat and simmer for 50 minutes, or until the grains are tender and all the cooking liquid has been absorbed. Set aside to cool. Meanwhile, mix all the ingredients for the dressing together in a jam jar with a tight-fitting lid and give it a good shake to combine.

Cut the pomegranate in half and, holding one half cut-side down over a bowl, bash with the back of a wooden spoon to release the seeds. Repeat with the other half.

Use a sharp knife to cut away the peel and white pith from the oranges. Cut the oranges into segments, holding them over a large bowl to catch the juices. Drop the segments into the bowl. Add the red onion, crumbled feta, pomegranate seeds, cooked pearl barley and herbs. Pour over the dressing and toss gently to combine. Serve at room temperature.

Chicken Katsu Curry

Ingredients

4 chicken breasts (about 150g each)
150ml sunflower oil
1 large free-range egg, beaten
1tbsp soy sauce
100g panko breadcrumbs (available in good supermarkets)
25g flour, seasoned
300g sticky rice, cooked, to serve
6 spring onions, thinly sliced, to serve

For the curry sauce:

1tbsp sunflower oil
1 onion, finely chopped
2 garlic cloves, finely chopped
1 thumb-sized piece of fresh ginger, very finely chopped
1tbsp curry powder
1tbsp ground turmeric
¼tsp chilli powder
1tbsp tomato puree
500ml chicken stock
1tsp cornflour
2tsp rice wine vinegar
1tbsp honey
1tbsp soy sauce

Method

First, make the sauce. Heat the oil in a pan over a medium heat, add the onion and fry for six minutes before stirring in the garlic and ginger; fry for one to two minutes. Sprinkle in the curry powder, turmeric, chilli powder and tomato puree and stir. Pour in the chicken stock and bring to a steady simmer. Cook for eight minutes and then mix two tablespoons of the hot liquid with the cornflour in a bowl until it is smooth. Pour this back into the pan along with the rice wine vinegar, honey and soy sauce. Cook for a further three minutes until the sauce has thickened and then blitz until smooth with a hand-held stick blender. Put the chicken breasts on a chopping board, place a piece of parchment paper on top and, using a rolling pin, bash the breasts to flatten them to a thickness of about 2-3cm. Heat the oil in a large frying pan over a medium-high heat. Whisk together the egg and soy sauce in a deep, flat bowl, and put the breadcrumbs and seasoned flour in separate bowls. Remove the parchment paper and dip each breast first in the seasoned flour, then in the egg mixture and finally the panko breadcrumbs.

Fry the crumbed chicken in the oil for five to six minutes until golden brown and cooked all the way through. Remove with a slotted spoon and transfer to a plate lined with kitchen paper. Slice the chicken and serve with the cooked sticky rice, spring onions and curry sauce.

Quinoa Chocolate Cake with Avocado Frosting

SERVES 8

Ingredients

150g cooked quinoa
4 large free-range eggs
50ml milk
150g butter, cubed
1tsp vanilla extract
200g coconut sugar (available in good supermarkets)
100g cocoa powder
1tsp baking powder
½tsp bicarbonate of soda
For the chocolate avocado frosting:
2 ripe avocados, stoned and flesh scooped out
75g cocoa powder
1tsp espresso powder
75g maple syrup
1tsp vanilla extract
½tsp sea salt

Method

Preheat the oven to 180C (160C fan) and grease and line a 20cm spring-form cake tin with parchment paper.

Place the quinoa, eggs, milk, butter and vanilla extract in a food processor and blitz until smooth.

Add the coconut sugar, cocoa powder, baking powder and bicarbonate of soda and blitz again to combine.

Transfer the mixture to the prepared tin and bake for 35-40 minutes, or until a skewer comes out clean.

Remove from the oven and allow to cool slightly before removing from the tin and setting on a wire rack to cool completely.

For the frosting, place the avocados, cocoa powder, espresso powder, maple syrup, vanilla extract and sea salt in a food processor and blitz until smooth, scraping down the sides of the bowl as necessary. Use a spatula to spread over the top of the cooled cake.

Velvet goldmine

JANUARY. Not a word I warm to [well, ditto February if I'm honest]. After all the Christmas excess there is a strong urge to the new start, the stripped back living, the new exercise regime.

That lasts me until, ooh, about day two when I find the remains of the Christmas cake and the odd Thorntons lurking in the box. I mean, you can't throw away a Thorntons, even if it's a Sicilian Lemon, can you? The short days and the cold weather set up a conflicting urge for me – that new start versus the need for warmth and comfort and a bit of pampering, if not downright hibernation.

In order to divert attention away from all those wonderful foodie comforts, I look to home to provide some of that cosiness. A strong trend emerging over the last few months is bang on the money for me, and that's velvet. It was hot on the catwalk last year – literally, as it started as a summer trend before continuing into autumn and winter. It has now crossed over into interiors, as so often happens. Not, of course, that velvet has ever gone away, it's just having a little moment in the sun, however low over the horizon it is!

Velvet refers to a technique, a woven pile fabric. It is hugely versatile: although initially was made from silk only, it can be made out of many fibres. It can be magnificently patterned, or soberly plain, the pile can be cut to different heights or partially removed to make a devoe fabric, and it can be crushed.

Velvet has a long and illustrious history and early examples of velvet have been found in Iraq and Egypt going back at least 4,000 years. It reached Europe during the Roman period, being traded along the Silk Road but it wasn't until the 12th century that production started in the West and the early Italian states that managed to produce this complex fabric made fortunes

A proper British take on French country is to add in an Indian design!! This glorious velvet, Aesop, is from Linwood Fabrics and is used here to upholster a traditional sofa out of it. Velvet was wildly expensive, so was for the wealthy elite only, and the more you could display on your person, your furniture and even your walls, the better. Today it is relatively inexpensive to make, but velvet's soft touch, way of intensifying colour in a way only silk can match and its lustre mean it still has strong connotations of luxury.

You can use velvet in any style of interior, anywhere where you want to add a touch of luxury or indulgence, but it absolutely comes into its own in any interior's style with a bit of luxe, especially that perennially favourite style – grand French country. This approach to interiors never goes away: it's harmonious, unaffected, mismatched and very easy to live it. It's full of curves and wood furniture is often carved and painted. But to be authentic it needs to have some understated glamour to it and this is where velvet scores. Swedish Gustavian style is a 'poor' relation of French country style – it started as a copy of French style, and being more northern, was a little more restrained and a tad rougher round the edges, and, to my mind, all the better for it. Faded, weathered colours and finishes abound – in fact, the original shabby chic! But velvet still works well here to add the necessary hint of glam.

The only note of caution I would add, particularly with plain velvets is that it can show directional marks and some people don't like this – run your hand over it to see how the velvet you are interested in behaves before buying it. Otherwise, just luxuriate in its warmth on a cold cold January day! Now, where's that velvet hot water bottle cover.....

If you buy only one thing... Make it a velvet cushion!

1. From Boeme Design, this cushion is beautifully named Tide Sunrise and you can see why! Good enough to frame and put on the wall. You could give it the odd stroke as you pass by

2. The Oriental Botanica Velvet Cushion in Pewter Grey: this beautiful Chinoiserie design is taken from an original hand painted wallpaper panel dated 1760. It comes in 3 sizes, and is available from the French Bedroom Company

3. PROPERTY FOCUS

Live like royalty at Kingswood

WITH just a five-minute walk from the centre of Elsenham and less than a 15-minute stroll from the railway station, Kingswood Place at Stansted Road has some exceptional homes for modern living.

Award-winning homebuilder, David Wilson Homes is currently building a number of stunning properties and its modern construction methods mean the homes at Kingswood Place are more energy efficient and cheaper to run than an older home.

Every charming new property has been designed with unique architectural features to reflect the charismatic character of the local area and are built with the highest quality materials. If you're considering a new home this new year, why not take a trip to see this new development and show homes to get an idea of their size, style and location.

Already available to view is the three-bedroom Banbury. This home is ideal for families as it offers open plan living space with a large kitchen/dining room on the ground floor. At the rear of the house are French doors, which lead out into the garden and a spacious living area. On the first floor are two double bedrooms along with a single bedroom, family bathroom and an en-suite.

Also available to view now is The Greenvale. This has been designed to be the ultimate family home, with five bedrooms, a coach house and garage. This contemporary property has a combined kitchen and family room at the rear, with French doors leading onto the garden. There is also a separate dining room, a study and a ground floor WC for added convenience. The first floor consists of two double bedrooms with en-suites, another two double bedrooms, a single bedroom and a family bathroom. The coach house above the garage is self-contained and would make an ideal guest/hobby space, children's playroom or be used as a sixth bedroom.

A number of three and five bedroom homes are for sale now at Kingswood Place, with prices starting from £384,995.

Elsenham is located within the Uttlesford district of Essex, which topped the 2014 Halifax rural areas quality of life survey and offers beautiful surroundings and a host of useful and highly regarded amenities and schools. Trains from Elsenham reach Cambridge in just 29 minutes, and London Liverpool Street in less than one hour. Alternatively, you can reach central London from Bishop's Stortford station in less than 40 minutes.

The M11 motorway is nearby, giving easy access to Cambridge to the north and the M25 to the south for connections all over London. For travel further afield, Stansted Airport can be reached in just eight minutes.

Part of Barratt Developments PLC, David Wilson Homes has been awarded the maximum five-star official rating from the Home Builders Federation (HBF) for the seventh year in a row. The news was announced after more than 45,000 new homebuyers across the country took part in this year's HBF customer satisfaction survey. Site managers working for Barratt Group also won 79 awards for quality workmanship in the 2016 NHBC Pride in the Job Awards. Barratt has won more Pride in the Job awards than any other house builder for the last 12 years.

Refurbishment is no mystery

FANS of TV crime series Inspector Morse will recognise the front door of this detached Victorian house, which served as the detective's home during his 33-episode run from 1987 to 2000.

The series, which was based on the popular books by Colin Dexter, starred John Thaw as Inspector Morse and Kevin Whately as Sergeant Lewis.

It was filmed mostly in and around Oxford and, like the books, put the opera-loving, real ale quaffing and gruff eye-rolling character of Morse at the centre of each murder investigation.

Although Morse was killed off in the final episode, the series had two recent spin-offs including Endeavour, a 2012 prequel about the young Morse, and a separate series called Lewis starring Kevin Whately, which ran until 2015.

In the original series, Inspector Morse has a flat within a Victorian house and, although portrayed as being in Oxford, the property is in Ealing, West London, and is a regular haunt of Morse fans.

Many were horrified to discover recently that the property had fallen into disrepair and been taken over by squatters after being repossessed.

28 Castlebar Park featured in six episodes of Inspector Morse including Masonic Mysteries in which it is set alight. More recently the house has undergone a refurbishment and has been turned into several apartments, one of which is now available to rent via local letting agent Complete Prime Residential (0203 551 9900) for £2,383 a month.

It has three double bedrooms, private parking and a new kitchen as well as access to communal gardens.

Jack Sparrow's French hamlet

PIRATES of the Caribbean star Johnny Depp may be one of the world's biggest film stars with a bank account to match, but as he and former partner Amber Heard go through a messy divorce he's been busy trying to sell almost every property he owns.

This includes his New York apartment for sale at $12.78m, Venetian holiday home at $10.8million and, to crown them all, his French wine estate where he and former partner Vanessa Paradis, with whom he has two children, used to live.

Depp originally put the 200-year-old hamlet up for sale at $26million in 2015 but recently nearly doubled the asking price to $50million.

He said through his selling agent Rick Hilton, father of Nicky and Paris, that he thought the property had originally been 'priced too low'.

Located near to the village of Plan de la Tour, Depp's former French bolthole is ten miles inland from St Tropez on the Cote d'Azur and includes 37 acres of olive groves, vineyards and forests as well as a main house with 15 bedrooms and 14 bathrooms, a chapel, six guest cottages, a bar and a restaurant.

It also has a skate park, professional kitchen, launderette and a garage plus two swimming pools and gym.

And there's an artist's studio too; Depp is a keen painter.

He bought the property in 2001 and has since spent $10million doing up the properties on the estate, but moved out after French tax authorities demanded that he either become a resident of France – and start paying income tax there – or use the hamlet only as a holiday home.

By Robin Roberts

TIMING is everything when it comes to selling cars. The Infiniti Q30 Premium with two-wheel-drive is pitched into the heart of the booming SUV crossover sector and it's the latest model to come out of the highly successful Sunderland vehicle assembly plant operated by Nissan, the parent company of the Japanese luxury marque.

It's stylish and looks the part of a compact crossover, is well made and finished with good economy and a rarity value which some rivals have overlooked.

What could go wrong? Well, a few things irked me.

The Infiniti has for now a modest range of engines and trim levels and the options on this car were not cheap with a £1,400 navigation system, metallic white paint at £670 and a sunroof for £500.

I would be even more annoyed if I had shelled out £1,400 on a navigation system which had software which was not up to date by at least a year and would lead me to question its accuracy and reliability as a result.

Pitched against some better-known German rivals the Q30 was also lacking in power and with a full load of passengers it had to be encouraged along with higher revs and plenty of gear changes, which immediately hit economy.

We managed a respectable average of over 40mpg, but it frequently dipped below 30mpg when driven quickly with a full load.

With passengers in the back, the already limited view through the slit-like rear window was made worse and you really had to rely on the reversing sensors to pick up anything or anyone obscured by the thick c-pillars and high tail.

Boot space was reasonable but not what you might expect in a family car and that was even without a full size spare wheel or run-flat tyre as it came with just a puncture repair kit, which is of no help with all but the simplest deflation.

The Infiniti Q30 is the brand's first SUV/crossover type model and appeals to fashion conscious car lovers.

It is a good four seater, tight for five, and it's no challenge to drive with good forward and side vision, good big wipers and bright headlights for bad weather.

The 1,600cc engine is smooth and fairly quiet, the gear change light and precise with modest clutch weight and brakes had good feedback and power.

You could hear the suspension working away over bad roads but it coped well and was fairly smooth riding, with a slight roll on bends but it handled faithfully and road holding was safe and predictable for a two-wheel-drive car.

It looks good inside as well as out with plenty of oddments room and the heating and ventilation kept everyone content.

For the driver, major and secondary controls were well placed and operated with a solidity while the stylish instruments were clear and easy to read.

There is no doubt the Infiniti Q30 will be very attractive to buyers who want something different and do not need a huge amount of power or acres of space.

It is also well priced before you add on extras, but its residual value is still an unknown quantity and that is down to the market and time.

Weston dominant for Harlow

HARLOW moved eight points clear at the top of the London Three North East table after a comfortable 36-17 win at fifth-placed Ely.

Tries from Shaun Roberts, Ryan McGlone, Scott Whitby and a brace from Michael Weston gifted the Essex side the win in their first game of the New Year.

The Red Men started well and dominated the early stages. The dominance turned into points after a Smith penalty and Weston try near the posts gave the away side a 10-0 lead after 12 minutes.

Despite Harlow wasting golden opportunities, especially when McGlone broke, Ross Stalley was unable to support the excellent counter attack. They went into the break 24-0 up after two converted tries through Roberts and Weston.

Ely attacked the Harlow defence from the off in the second half. The Red Men held their line superbly against the home side's continuous attacks until they cleared after 15 minutes. Harlow's resulting clearance led to a line-out, where they turned the ball over, chipping the ball into the Ely 22 causing confusion amongst the home defence, allowing McGlone to glide through the middle of the ruck for a try which Smith converted.

During the last 15 minutes, Ely scored three tries as Harlow made several changes. Harlow hit back with another well worked try, after some great interchange play from the forwards allowed Sean Lynch to beat his man and offload to Whitby to score in the corner.

Lee Harron, Director of Harlow Rugby said: "This was another great result. The boys put the work in over the Christmas break and it showed."

Stalemate in tough league encounter

HARLOW TOWN stayed in 11th place with 38 points in the Ryman Premier League table after a stalemate at Wingate & Finchley.

Striker Alex Read started for the Hawks despite the club accepting a transfer request made by the player last week, but he couldn't find the net in the 0-0 draw.

Harlow were hoping to get a win before their big FA Trophy game at home against York City.

The first half was filled with half chances for both sides. The away side had the first opportunity when Stanley Maguogbo failed to convert after a great driven cross from Read.

Then, the Hawks had two great chances blocked by Wingate defender Luke Ifil, first from Ibrahima Sonko and then a chance from Syrus Gordon.

It took until 20 minutes for the hosts to have their first opportunity. Reece Beckles-Richards beat Sonko and found Rob Laney, whose shot was parried away well by Hawks' keeper David Hughes.

Wingate and Finchley finished the half strongly but failed to test the goalkeeper failing to break the deadlock before the interval.

After the break, Hughes was forced into a good save which kicked Harlow into gear, with Read upping the intensity, firstly being denied by a last ditch tackle from Jordan Gibbons, and then playing provider for Bamba Ngamb, who wasted his chance past the post.

Wingate right back Gibbons was certainly a contender for man of the match; he once again dispossessed Khale da Costa and then Ngamb with recovering tackles.

The game brightened up with a flurry of chances in the last 15 minutes for both sides to win the game. Afolabi Obafemi was unmarked at the back post, but Hughes parried the effort which was then cleared.

Harlow then started to dominate the match, Leon Antoine failed to reach da Costa's cross to head into an open net, and then Ngamb could not tap get the ball from out of his feet to tap in from a Craig Pope knock down. Harlow could not convert their chances and had to take the point when they should have had all three.

Star striker Read is staying put for now

Chapman says no offers yet for transfer-listed front man

MANAGER Danny Chapman has said there have been no offers for Harlow Town's transfer listed striker Alex Read.

The 27-year-old handed in a transfer request last week and played during the side's 0-0 draw at Wingate & Finchley on Saturday.

Chapman isn't looking at replacing the striker yet. "I am sure all managers have got players that they like in certain positions, but until an offer is made for Alex, which hasn't happened yet, then we won't start looking at that," he said.

"But at this moment in time, as far as I'm concerned Alex Read is a Harlow Town player. He's been professional with it since he has put in a request. The club and myself have been professional with it since he put in a request."

The striker has a brilliant goalscoring record for Harlow Town, netting 148 goals in 199 games for the club.

The Hawks manager believes letting him go will have to be right for the club, adding: "If he goes anywhere it has to be right for the football club and it has got to be right for Alex also."

"But of course he will be missed, he scored a lot of goals for the club but you also have to look at the reason he scored the goals for the club, that's the service that he's had throughout the years."

"At this moment in time, nothing is concrete, he's on the transfer list and we will see what happens in the next month.

"There's no animosity, at this moment in time, all we have to worry about is beating York City on Saturday."

Harlow Town face the Vanarama National League side, who are bottom of the table, on Saturday in the FA Trophy second round at the Harlow Arena, and Chapman says he is looking for a cup upset when the two teams meet.

"I think there's always a chance of an upset when teams play against lower opposition teams," he said. "We will go into the game with confidence after beating Eastleigh in the last round."

"That's what you are looking for, an upset, that's the way we will approach the game, the way we approach every game, we will be prepared for it."

Chance

"We will approach the game as if we were playing a league game. We want to attack, we want to score goals. I'm sure they will be exactly the same."

The Hawks boss added that his side will not show their opponents too much respect. "We need to make sure that we approach it in the right way that we are respectful - but not fearful. There is a fine line between those two things."

"They've got a few good players, Jon Parkin has played a really good high level. He is technically a great player. He gets himself into some great positions. The two centre halves will need to be aware of that. But if you start worrying too much about other teams it can put an element of doubt in people's heads."
